4. Valuation Approach and Methodologies

Valuation of a business is not an exact science and ultimately depends upon what it is worth to a serious investor or buyer who may be prepared to pay a substantial goodwill. This exercise may be carried out using various methodologies, the relative emphasis of each often varying with:

- whether the entity is listed on a stock exchange
- industry to which SKFL belongs
- past track record of the business and the ease with which the growth rate in cash flows to perpetuity can be estimated.

The results of this exercise could vary significantly depending upon the basis used, the specific circumstances and professional judgment of the valuer. In respect of going concerns, certain valuation techniques have evolved over time and are commonly in vogue. These approaches can be broadly categorized as follows:

1. Market Method

- Comparable Company-We believe there is no listed company specifically comparable in the similar line of segments in which our Company operates and whose business segment in part or full may be comparable with that of our business.
- Price Approach- 10 Day VWAP/90 DAY VWAP

10 DAY VWAP/90 DAY VWAP

Valuation Premise

Premise of Value refers to the conditions and circumstances how an asset is deployed. Determining the business value depends upon the situation in which the business or a business interest is valued, i.e. events likely to happen to the business as contemplated at the valuation date. In a given set of circumstances, a single premise of value may be adopted while in some situations multiple premises of value may be adopted.

Standard of value

The standard of value used in the valuation of equity shares is fair value ("FV"). The term FV is defined by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India ("ICAI") valuation standard 101: Definitions as follows: "The price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the valuation date".

Premise of value

ICAI Valuation Standard 101 defines premise of value as "the conditions and circumstances how an asset is deployed". It defines going-concern value as "...the value of a business enterprise that is expected to continue to operate in the future". The premise of value for our analyses is going concern
